

Changing Constants

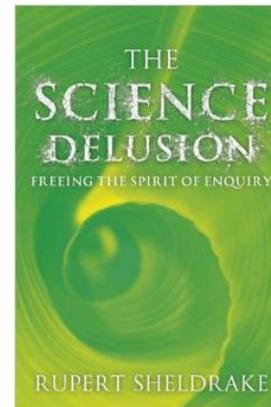

By Johan Oldenkamp

Even the most die-hard believer in what universities try to sell as science has to deal with the fact the speed of light through what is considered to be vacuum is not constant. Various studies have unmistakably revealed that this so-called fundamental constant is actually decreasing.

An eloquent whistle blower who most strikingly exposes university “science” as a belief system is Rupert Sheldrake (1942). In his book titled ‘The Science Delusion’ (2012), he falsified 10 major dogmas of university “science”. With Wholly Science, I also proof the deficiencies of this university belief system called ‘scientism’. On top of that, Wholly Science also shows the way back to genuine science.

Reformulated in my own words, the 10 major dogmas of scientism as exposed by Rupert Sheldrake are:

1. All in nature functions like a mechanical machine.
2. All is material, and an immaterial phenomenon as consciousness is an illusion.
3. There is a fixed amount of energy, while matter and energy are exchangeable.
4. Nature is regulated by fixed physical laws, meaning that also the fundamental constants in these laws are fixed.
5. Nature is purposeless.
6. Biological inheritance is completely material and mechanical.
7. The illusion of a mind emerges from the activities of brains.
8. Memories are stored as material traces in brains and are wiped out at death.
9. Immaterial phenomena like telepathy are illusory (as an example of Dogma #2).
10. Mechanistic, material medicine is the only kind that really works.

One year after this book was released, on January 13, 2013, Rupert Sheldrake gave a talk for TEDx Whitechapel, where he explained these ten dogmas in general and a few of them in more detail. However, after accusing him of pseudo-science, the video of this talk was censored and removed from the TEDx youtube channel. Fortunately, several others have uploaded it again. Just search on the title of this book and the name of its author, and you will easily find it.

Wholly Science explains why natural phenomena do not function mechanically like machines. Furthermore, scientism only describes these phenomena, as it offers no real explanations. The physical, material world is in reality the third and outer ring of reality. Wholly Science refers to it as the shadow world, as it is in essence a holographic projection. In front of that projected shadow world, at the other side of the proverbial veil, there is the middle world of life energies. Wholly Science refers to that second world as the proto world. Contrary to the dogmas of scientism, the origin of all does not reside in matter. This origin is even beyond the metaphysical world in the middle. Wholly Science refers to the first world as the source world.
